MIDDLE EASTERN MUSEUM

PUBLISHED 06/11/2025

Camptosaurus

A near-complete Camptosaurus skeleton acquired by a prominent museum in the Middle East, ensuring preservation and public display for generations to come. The specimen was the first complete dinosaur that David Aaron presented at an international art fair, at Frieze Masters 2022. The Camptosaurus, meaning ‘bent lizard’ referring to its flexible back, was a highly adaptable, medium-sized herbivore that roamed the lush landscapes of what is now western North America and Europe in the Late Jurassic period, 155–145 million years ago.